About Town

And Country
By TIMOTHEUS T.

MISSED A COUPLE of days last week when a cold got me down and the doggone thing has settled in my back. But that has nothing to do with this bit of column.

Today's effort deals with dishwashing in unconventional manner. It all came up when Mrs. Mary Carmen of 1229 West Largent street came into the office with something wrapped up in a newspaper.

"Know what these are?" she asked me. And I didn't.

"I don't know the real name for them," she said, as she placed down on the counter a couple of items, "but they call them dishrag gourds."

One of the items was a long, yellow and gourdlike, and the other looked like a skeleton of the first. Item No. 1 was just like they come off the vine.

She pointed to item No. 2. "This is the way they look when they've been peeled and dried," she said. "They're good for washing dishes."

About that time Anita Peyton, who works here at the office, came up and said she had used the dishrag gourds and that they worked fine in washing dishes. They were fine for pots and pans, just like a scouring pad, she said. She added that one sometimes lasts three or four months.

I was convinced and I have one of the dishrag gourds right here on my desk ready to be put to use when I get home.

Mrs. Carmen said this is the first year she has grown the gourds, that she got the seed from a woman from Kentucky. Average size, she said, is nine to 10 inches, but the unpeeled one she brought in was 12 or 14 inches long.

"This is the biggest one I grew," she said, pointing to it. She said she had 17 off her vines this year.

MR. AND MRS. ED BEAN, who spent their vacation on the East Coast visiting their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bean, visited the Washington Monument and while waiting to go in side spotted a couple of other Harrisburg residents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnson, which again proves it to be a small world.

Some time back the son, who is in the U. S. Navy, was walking along a Washington, D. C., street, and ran into Arthur Debes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Debes of this city, which adds fuel to the small world theory.

County Receives $5,456 from Housing Authority--Payment in Lieu of Taxes

Two checks totalling $5,456.42 were paid into the Saline county treasury Monday by the Saline County Housing Authority, payment from the housing authority in lieu of taxes.

These were the fourth and fifth checks paid to the county by the housing authority since it began operation in Saline county.

County Treasurer Maynard Cannon explained that there are no taxes levied against the housing authority, a federal government enterprise, but the housing authority offered the county a contract whereby it pays 10 per cent of the shelter rent annually.

This money is then distributed among the various taxing bodies involved. There are housing projects in four townships--Harrisburg, Eldorado, Carrier Mills and Galatia.

The checks paid Monday totalled $1,698.72 from Eldorado and $3,757.70 from Harrisburg, Galatia and Carrier Mills.

The housing in Eldorado was the first in Saline county to be started and is carried as a separate financial transaction. The other three were built under one contract and are handled as one transaction.

Julius Steinmarch, executive director of the Saline County Housing Authority, stated the payments represent 10 per cent of shelter rents, or gross rents less utilities.

Utilities for the housing projects throughout the county amount to approximately $1,200 each month. The utility bills, over the year, will average monthly $500 for electricity, $400 for gas and $300 for water, Mr. Steinmarch said.

Members of the Board of Commissioners--John Murphy of Eldorado chairman, Walter Russell, Aaron Allen and Paul Lewis, all of Galatia, and H. L. Kingery of Carrier Mills--met bi-monthly to discuss and determine policy matters.

The Eldorado housing units were completed about four years ago and the ones in Harrisburg, Carrier Mills and Galatia about a year later.

Farm Talk by Ike Tonight

President May Give Reply to Adlai Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower flies to the Midwest today for the first major farm speech for his re-election campaign. Adlai E. Stevenson challenged him in advance to spell out precisely what he has done to fulfill his 1952 farm pledges.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower were scheduled to depart from Washington's National Airport this afternoon on a flight to Peoria, Ill. The Chief Executive will deliver his address there at 7:30 CST tonight in the Bradley University Field House.

The 30-minute speech will be broadcast and telecast by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Purposes of Trip

The speech and visit to the Midwest will:

- Give Mr. Eisenhower his first opportunity to answer Stevenson's charges that the administration has brought about a "farm depression."

- Provide the President a platform for announcing any new administration plans to raise farm income.

- Include a presidential boost for the candidacy of Illinois Republican Sen. Everett Dirksen, who is running for a new term against State Sen. Richard Stengel.

Adlai Asks Particulars

On the eve of the speech, Stevenson, speaking in Oklahoma City, called on the President "to tell us when he speaks at Peoria... precisely what his administration has done to fulfill its pledges to the American farmer."

Stevenson maintained that in 1952 Mr. Eisenhower promised farmers to continue price supports at 90 per cent of parity and later said he would work for full 100 per cent parity. Yet, said Stevenson, the administration has fulfilled neither of these pledges but has shown "neglect and indifference" to the farmer.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty left no doubt that Mr. Eisenhower would "present the facts of the farm situation" because they "needed straightening out."

Former Warden At Pontiac Dies

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP)—Wray L. Call, 64, Emington, Ill., the former warden of the Pontiac State Prison, died late Monday.

To Daily Register Subscribers--

Effective the week beginning next Monday, October 1, the price of The Daily Register will be 30 cents per week in Harrisburg and the surrounding areas served by Little Merchant carrier boys.

A part of the five-cents-a-week increase will be divided with carrier boys, who pay for their papers at a wholesale rate and whose profit is based on collection from customers.

In some areas where a minimum number of papers are delivered, the price will remain as at present. This special arrangement is offered to not more than five per cent of subscribers.

The increase to 30 cents per week from 25 cents is the first since August 26, 1948, and is required because of increasing expenses, of which all customers are aware.

Since the last increase in subscription rates, the cost of newsprint has increased more than 25 per cent, labor nearly 50 per cent and utilities, machine parts, wire news services, machinery and parts and all other items required for publishing a newspaper have increased in cost.

Traditionally, subscription income from a newspaper the size of The Daily Register should cover about one-fourth of the cost of publication, with advertisers bearing the remainder. Advertising rates have been increased almost yearly for the past eight years, and advertisers are now bearing a share of costs more proportionate than subscribers.

Kefauver Rally Thursday North Side Court House

The Democratic rally in Harrisburg Thursday afternoon will be held from the north porch of the court house it has been announced.

The rally will feature U. S. Senator Estes Kefauver, Democratic nominee for vice president.

Accompanying Sen. Kefauver to Harrisburg will be Congressman Kenneth Gray of West Frankfort, Rep. Paul Powell of Vienna and other district candidates. The Democratic Saline county candidates will also be present.

Chief of Police Ross Lane has announced that Locust street from Main to Vine will be roped off for the rally if it is necessary.

"If the crowd spills out from the court house yard into the street we will rope off the block on the north side of the square, but will wait until we see it is necessary," Lane stated.

Sen. Kefauver will stop in Harrisburg on a 10-city swing through southern Illinois Thursday, with his talk here scheduled for 2:45 p. m.

Polish Pilot Flies to Freedom

ROENNE, Denmark (AP)—A Polish flier crash-landed a Communist MIG15 jet fighter on an airstrip in Roenne today and asked for political asylum.

A military unit immediately cordoned off the field. Airfield sources confirmed that the pilot was a Pole and said he damaged a wingtip of his plane when he landed it on the grass.

The pilot carried a map showing Roenne Air Field.

The aircraft was reported to be a new type MIG.

Copenhagen police disclosed today that a young Soviet radio operator made a jump to freedom from a Soviet trawler in the Kattegat last Saturday night.

Indict Marion Woman for Murder

MARION, Ill. (AP)—The Williamson County Grand Jury today indicted Mrs. Ouida Cannon, 30, a rural resident of Marion, for the murder of her husband.

Mrs. Cannon was charged with slaying Raymond Lee Cannon, 31, as he slept on Sept. 1.

In another case the jury exonerated Robert McDonald, 22, Johnston City, of the slaying of Robert Lee Springs, 32, also of Johnston City. Springs was a former employer of McDonald and also served as best man at his wedding.

Uphold Law to Help Chicago Build Exposition Hall

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Illinois Supreme Court today upheld a 1955 law aimed at helping Chicago build a 34-million-dollar exposition hall.

The high court rejected arguments by downstate county fairgroups that the act was unconstitutional because it was not read "in full" three times before passage in the Illinois House.

Schools Receive $26,582 for Transportation

C. R. Gardner, county superintendent of schools, announced today he had distributed $26,582.49 to school districts of Saline county.

This represents 92.0631346 per cent of the claim submitted by the schools of the county for transporting common school pupils during the school year ending June 30, 1956.

In a letter from Lloyd Morey, auditor of public accounts, Mr. Morey explains that the amount appropriated for that purpose was insufficient; therefore the Saline county claim could not be paid in full.

Distribution to the various school districts were made on that basis. The following is a list of the schools and the amount distributed to each:

Galatia elementary school $2,671.86; Carrier Mills public school $1,773.69; Raleigh Consolidated grade school $1,790.08; Muddy $239.36; Harrisburg public schools $2,655.47; Pierson $239.36; Rudement $276.18; Greenhill $799.84; Beulah Heights $165.71; Eldorado city schools $885.31; Bixler $546.11; Cottage Grove $355.91; Colbert $163.50; Taylor $239.36; Crossroads $1,227.39;

Harrisburg Township high school $4,834.25; Eldorado Township high school $4,118.19; Carrier Mills Community high school $1,618.10; Galatia Community high school $2,182.82.

Budget Bureau Approves Federal Building at Benton

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Budget Bureau Monday approved construction of 31 new post offices and government buildings costing an estimated $24,845,000.

The projects will be built under the government's so-called "lease purchase" program started in 1954. Under this program, private contractors construct the buildings and the government pays for them through rents spread out through a period of years.

The midwestern locations, new projects, and their estimated cost are:

Benton, Ill., post office-courthouse, $1,100,000; Fort Dodge, Iowa, post office-courthouse, $1,980,000; Bemidji, Minn., post office, $1,200,000; Brainerd, Minn., post office, $612,000; St. Louis, Mo., federal office building, $13,760,000 and records center, $6,740,000.

Tragedy Averted When Boy, 2, Is Rescued from Abandoned Well

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—What could have been another Kathy Fiscus-type tragedy was averted Monday night when scores of workers rescued a two-year-old boy from an abandoned well.

The scene of the near tragedy was a vacant lot where some 1,000 spectators watched as construction workers and firemen rescued little Tommy Hartnett less than three hours after he fell into the 150-foot well.

The youngster had wandered away from his nearby home and plunged into the 14-inch well casing. His frantic muffled screams for help were heard by a neighbor who sounded the alarm for one of the biggest rescue operations in the history of this city.

Scores of workers quickly converged for the heroic drama. It was at first believed the tot had fallen to the bottom of the deep shaft but workmen soon discovered the youth fortunately had become wedged some 10 feet below ground.

Little Tommy could be heard at times whimpering, "Mama, help me." His parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Hartnett, stood by and shouted encouragement to the trapped lad.

"Tommy, hang on! Everything will be all right," his tearful mother told her boy. "The men will get you out."

Workers, stripped to the waist, began digging around the rusted

Ministerial Ass'n Elects Officers, Plans Union Service

The Harrisburg Ministerial association met Monday morning, electing officers for the coming year and made plans for the annual union Thanksgiving worship service.

The Rev. William Fuson, pastor of the Dorrisville Baptist church, is the new president and the Rev. William Burroughs, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, is secretary-treasurer. They succeed the Rev. Glen Daugherty of the First Christian church and the Rev. Joe Morman of the First Baptist church, respectively.

The annual union Thanksgiving service will be held Thanksgiving morning, Thursday, Nov. 22, at 8:30 in the First Baptist church with the Rev. J. D. McCarty, pastor of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church, bringing the Thanksgiving sermon.

Members of the Ministerial association were breakfast guests of L. A. Wasson for their September meeting, held at the 45-Cafe.

The next meeting of the association will be held Monday, Nov. 5, at 8:30 a. m. at the First Presbyterian church.

Elephant Will Be Kefauver Competition At Murphysboro

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (AP)—Estes Kefauver, Democratic candidate for vice president, will have some competition from an elephant, symbol of the GOP, here Thursday.

Kefauver is scheduled to speak on the courthouse square at 11:45 a. m. A circus sponsored by the Lions Club has been scheduled to parade an elephant around the courthouse from 11 a. m. until noon to attract attention to its one-day stand.

Officials say both appearances were scheduled far in advance and that the conflict is coincidental.

At Least 10 Deaths Caused By Flossy Winds

Search Still in Progress for Eight Missing in Gulf

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—Hurricane Flossy whose mighty winds caused at least 10 deaths including a mother and her three children, on a rampage out of the Gulf subsided today into drenching and needed rain.

The sopping storm brought an end to a drought in sections of south Alabama and Georgia.

At 8 a. m. the remnants of the once-killing howler were located in extreme southwest Georgia just west of Albany, moving in a direction between northeast and east northeast at 10 miles an hour.

As the hurricane slashed inland near Panama City, Fla., Monday night two jets were rammed together by the turbulent winds. As one spun to earth it hit a home and killed an expectant mother and her three children.

The victims, burned beyond recognition, were identified as Mrs. Ella Walter, 23, and her children, Phillip, 3; Dorothy, 2, and Mary Lee, 1. All were Negroes.

The Weather Bureau said storm warnings remained up east of St. Mark's, Fla., to Tampa and along the Atlantic from Brunswick, Ga., to Wilmington, N. C.

Forecast Heavy Rains

Flossy's highest winds were down to 50 miles an hour. To the north and east of the now extra-tropical storm winds were up to 25 to 35 miles an hour for 300 to 350 miles.

Heavy rains were forecast for the day in east Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina, spreading into North Carolina during the day. Those areas should watch for possible local flood conditions, the weathermen warned.

Among late casualties reported from the storm were an unidentified Negro construction worker who was electrocuted by a live wire in Mobile and a 65-year-old Negro man, run over by a motorist at Sloumb, Ala., who said hurricane whipped rain blinded him.

A search still was in progress for eight persons isolated in boats or on an island in the choppy Gulf waters off Louisiana.

Highways east of New Orleans were impassable this morning but the highway patrol expected high waters to subside by afternoon.

In the New Orleans area, most evacuees were expected to be back in their homes today. Waters reached a depth of about five feet in some sections of the city near Lake Pontchartrain Monday but was rapidly receding to allow residents to return to their homes.

The Coast Guard said all personnel trapped on off-shore oil rigs by Flossy apparently were reached Monday and oil companies expected to resume operations today.

The motor vessel Carport was located about 4:30 a. m. 40 miles south of Grand Isle and 10 persons were reported safe aboard.

Army engineers in New Orleans said there were no breaks in Mississippi river levees, although some were damaged. The water topped the embankment along the navigation canal at Violet and flooded the nearby countryside.

The two jets were in flight from Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla., at the height of the tempest Monday night and slammed together in the turbulent air and crashed.

Lt. Roderick B. Adams, treated at a private home here for lacerations and shock, told United Press in an interview that he was flying blind in the storm and had no idea what happened except "that I bailed out." He wasn't even certain there was a collision with another plane.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

And Abraham said to Lot, let there be no strife I pray thee between me and thee. Genesis 13:8. Abraham came from Sumer that pre-dated Babylon. Palestine was a distant frontier thinly peopled. There was room for all. We do not have to impoverish others to be prosperous ourselves. Abraham wanted to share. That is the true way to abundance.

The Prosperity Squabble

Editorial — By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Prosperity being a very desirable condition, it is quite natural for politicians to claim credit for it when their regimes coincide with it, or to run it down a little when they're on the outside.

In some measure the claims and complaints may be justified, but very often they are substantially exaggerated.

Looking at the status of the nation's economy in 1956, we can see certain things which tend to underscore this aspect of the prosperity-politics link.

There is no doubt that the United States today is considerably more prosperous on the whole than it was in 1952. More people are employed than ever before. Their average annual real wages are at new peaks. Industry is spending record sums for expansion, and so on.

Now the impartial appraiser, trying to cut through political argument, must in the circumstances allow the possibility that President Eisenhower's incumbent regime contributed in some degree to this development. Government, always playing a delicate but key role, can aid growth or impede it.

Most economists would say Mr. Eisenhower has given the economy a favorable atmosphere. On the other hand, the good times have not been all-embracing. During most of the Republican administration they have not included a good many farmers. The latter suffered a long price decline that only in the past year has been largely halted.

Too, there have been record numbers of business failures, and spotty conditions in particular industries, like automobile production this year.

Republicans who want to boast that the prosperity is their doing cannot mean too loudly if Democrats point the finger at them for the chinks in the armor.

But the ordinary voting citizen probably realizes there is another side to this whole matter. This country is growing apace. Having more and more people with every passing year, its economic needs are constantly greater. In other words, a movement to higher economic levels is more or less inevitable under these circumstances of growth.

Political parties can only do so much to control economic currents. We have to be somewhat skeptical when they claim they alone produced the prosperity wave they are riding, or when they are blamed for some of the troughs the nation dips into.

Just as our current prosperity has many causes, only some of them political, so the difficulties endured by our farmers and some small businesses have explanations beyond the political realm.

The state of the farmers' domestic and foreign markets, for example, is a condition over which politicians can have but little control. The current situation was arrived at, indeed, after a long decline in prices which was quite bipartisan in its impact, having begun under President Truman.

Taking credit and placing blame are standard political games. But it's well for us all to remember that politicians are not the only masters in our house.

Revival Begins

A revival began last night at the Keelen Hill General Baptist church with the Rev. John Henshaw and wife as evangelists.

There will be special singing each evening. The pastor, Rev. Reed, extends a special welcome.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Stevenson Was Balking About Pinning Faults On Ike; He Won't Make Suez A Campaign Issue; Beautiful Mrs. John Sherman Cooper Startles Ken-tuckians.

WASHINGTON. — The Stevenson brain trust isn't advertising it, but they had a certain amount of trouble getting their candidate to come out and pin Eisenhower administration mistakes on Eisenhower himself.

At first Adlai ducked away from this, didn't want to tangle with the President.

His advisers warned, however, that no President could be divorced from either his party or his administration and that Ike was just as much responsible for the mistakes of his cabinet as Truman and Roosevelt were for theirs. They also warned that Stevenson couldn't possibly win unless he aimed for the political heart of the GOP, namely Ike himself.

Stevenson finally bought this advice, though he was obviously unhappy about it, didn't even like it after his first speech pinning GOP responsibility on the GOP president.

Adlai's advisers have not been able to budge him on another campaign issue, however, namely Suez. They have pointed out that the Dulles-Eisenhower mistake in picking Colonel Nasser as the friend of the U. S. A. and in urging the British to get out of the Suez area in 1955 when the Eisenhower administration first took office is just as serious an error as the Democrats made in 1952.

They believe that both Dulles and Eisenhower should be charged with fumbling and blundering in the Near East. However, Adlai has ruled that in the interest of national security and a bipartisan foreign policy, Suez should not be made a campaign issue.

AMBASSADOR'S WIFE IN KENTUCKY

The gorgeous Lorraine Shelvin, now Mrs. John Sherman Cooper, was a big help to her husband when he was ambassador to India. But she isn't helping so much now that he's running for the Senate in Kentucky.

Lorraine's gracious smile, charming manner, and luxurious parties made a hit with Prime Minister Nehru and other Indian dignitaries. They were sorry to see both her and Ambassador Cooper go.

But down in homespun Kentucky it's a bit different, as exemplified by 103-year-old Ben V. Smith when Mrs. Cooper displayed her white parasol in Cooper's home town, Somerset.

"That wife of his was walking around the courthouse square with a white umbrella," said Uncle Ben, "and it wasn't even raining."

SENATOR'S INDIAN STREAK

Vermont's puckish Sen. Ralph Flanders has a slight streak of Indian in him. This came out after he finished praising Indian skills at a recent hearing. "I am very glad," remarked Sen. Paul Douglas (D., Ill.), "to have this testimony from the Senator from Vermont."

"Who is himself one hundred twenty-eight Indian," added Flanders quickly.

RACE TOLERANCE

While race riots occupy the headlines, one unsung group is quietly making progress toward better race relations. This is the President's committee on government contracts, which enforces fair employment standards among companies doing business with Uncle Sam.

In Chicago, the committee helped Mayor Richard Daley with companies that had notified employment offices they would not hire Negro or Jewish workers. A dozen companies with government contracts agreed to adopt a non-discrimination policy. Chicago's Federal Reserve Bank also agreed to hire Negro clerks for the first time, after Mayor Daley called a meeting of leading businessmen and asked their cooperation in ending race discrimination.

In Washington and Baltimore, the committee ent John Roosevelt, the late FDA's son, to talk to telephone company executives. Presidential aide Max Rabb also applied pressure from the White House. Together they persuaded the company to hire Negro telephone operators.

In the South, GOP leader John Minor Wisdom of New Orleans persuaded Shell Oil company to revise its personnel policy and offer Negro laborers a chance for advancement. This has set a pattern for all the major oil refineries below the Maxon-Dixon line. It's a long-range program that will take education and training, but the committee has undertaken it without fanfare.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Tom Kennedy, right-hand man of John L. Lewis and No. 2 man in the United Mine Workers, has written a blistering letter to Congressman William Green (D., Pa.) accusing him of stopping Senator Kennedy of Massachusetts from getting the Democratic vice-presidential nomination.

Tom Kennedy and Sen. Jack Kennedy are not related. But Tom Kennedy of the mine workers claimed Congressman Green knifed Senator Kennedy by reporting in Chicago that he'd voted for the Taft-Hartley law. This swung enough labor votes away from Kennedy to stop his nomination.

James Oliver, who's waiting a recount to find out whether he won another congressional seat for the Democrats in Maine, has remarked that one reason he ran for Congress was to get retirement benefits. He served three terms in Congress as a Republican before switching to the Democratic party. This makes him eligible for a pension—if he can get back in Congress.

Latin delegates attending the Inter-American Conference which Ike arranged while in Panama, went home grumbling against the President's brother Milton. They said all Milton did was make vague promises of American aid. Nothing concrete. . . . U. S. diplomats are boiling over Dulles' appointment of Stanley C. Allyn, president of National Cash Register, to head the U. S. delegation to the forthcoming UNESCO Conference in New Delhi, India. Delegations of other countries will be headed by famous intellectual leaders, but the United States, which is trying to convince India that it isn't materialistic, will be represented by a corporation executive. . . . When President Truman had to choose a similar delegation he picked a famous college president. His name: Dr. Milton Eisenhower.

Local Limerick

Employs 100 Per Cent In Voter Registration

Employees of the local Limerick Finance branch office have been honored as one of the first of the company's 91 branch office staffs to attain 100% registration for the Nov. 6 general elections, according to Bill Brown, manager.

On display in the office window is a "Certificate of 100% Registration" awarded to them in conjunction with a company-wide campaign to encourage registration of all employees eligible to vote.

In explaining the "Register & Vote" campaign conducted by his company, Mr. Brown stated, "We are not interested in how anyone votes. We are only concerned with having every eligible employee properly registered to cast his vote in November. In addition, we are urging every citizen of Saline county to join us in this 'Register & Vote' campaign. Voting is the privilege and duty of every American citizen."

HAIRPIN BEND OF LUSK CREEK near Indian Kitchen, four miles east and one mile north of Eddyville, in the area to be visited during a Scenic Sites Tour Sunday, Sept. 30. The pool below is 35 feet deep and bluffs extend upward about 200 feet to level ground.

Scenic Sites Tour Sept. 30

The Eddyville Scenic Sites association is sponsoring a scenic sites tour Sunday, Sept. 30. The tour will leave Eddyville at 10 a. m. and will visit the Indian Kitchen area east of Eddyville.

Places of interest to be visited will be Rock Wall ford or wall; Indian Kitchen, balanced rock; Giles mill site with old timbers embedded in the creek; foundation of Giles rock home; shelter cave where oxen were kept; salt peter cave; a forbidden cave, where legend has it a petrified maiden is sitting and anyone entering will die.

Also to be seen will be gorges, cliffs, pools and wonderful scenery in fall coloring. Cold sandwiches and drinks will be available at the area to be visited, or those making the tour may bring their own lunches and drinks.

Pledged

Bill Skaggs, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Skaggs, 21 South Granger, pledged the Alpha Deuteron chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa at the University of Illinois. Alpha Deuteron is one of sixty chapters of Phi Sigma Kappa located throughout the United States. Twenty-four boys are in his pledge class. Bill is in the school of Liberal Arts and Sciences and is taking up pre-medicine.

Rhode Island gets its name from that of an island in Narragansett bay. The state itself is not an island.

Coy A. King is president of the Eddyville Scenic Sites association. Further information may be received from William Farley, Harrisburg.

The Detroit-Windsor vehicular tunnel is the first auto tube ever built between two nations. The tunnel was completed in 1930 and can accommodate 1,000 cars an hour.

Do FALSE TEETH

Rock, Slide or Slip? FASTEETH, an improved powder to be sprinkled on upper or lower plates, holds false teeth more firmly in place. Do not slide, slip or rock. Cadillac

When He Calls...He Has News!

The gentleman you see in the picture above is a Cadillac salesman.

He is placing a telephone call to a citizen in his community—to pass along some news of a very special nature.

He is calling to tell of the wonderful opportunity that exists today to become the proud and happy owner of a new Cadillac car.

First of all, he will tell of the unusually generous trade-in allowance that he can give at this particular season.

Then he will reveal some wonderful and surprising information about how quickly delivery can be obtained on a new Cadillac.

And then, time permitting, he will recite some of the other practical aspects of Cadillac ownership.

He will talk about the car's relatively modest cost . . . about its amazing dependability and endurance . . . about its remarkable economy of upkeep and operation . . . and about its marvelous resale value.

And we feel almost certain that, with so much logic on his side, he will have little difficulty explaining why this is the "time of times" to make the move to Cadillac.

Within the next several weeks, this gentleman—or one of his colleagues—might well be calling you. And when he does, we hope you'll remember that he has news!

We think you will enjoy talking with him. And we think you'll be grateful that you took the time to hear what he has to say. For he will be calling with the most inviting automotive story of the year!

Announce Engagement of Miss Katharine Bryant, Charles V. Hagler

Miss Katharine Bryant

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar LeRoy Bryant of Dearborn, Mich., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Katharine, to Charles V. Hagler.

The Bryants gathered 20 members of the immediate family and a few close friends at their home to reveal the nuptial news, then took their guests to the Detroit Athletic Club for dinner.

The wedding is scheduled for Nov. 16 in the Mary Martha Chapel at historic Greenfield Village, Dearborn.

The bride-to-be, a niece of the late Mrs. Henry Ford, attended Ward Belmont and was graduated from Dennison University where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Her fiancé, son of Fred Hagler, 211 West Raymond, Harrisburg, attended both Texas A. and M. and Wayne University. He's an Alpha Delta Sigma.

Miss Bryant visited Harrisburg over Labor Day weekend and was a house guest of the H. B. Bau-mans. She is assistant curator of Fine Arts at Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village. Mr. Hagler is on the Public Relations staff of General Motors.

Woman's Club Has Program on Family Finance

The regular meeting of the Harrisburg Woman's club, held Monday afternoon, opened with the song "America" and the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Mrs. Hugh Walker, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

The president, Mrs. E. Bishop Hill, presented the chairman for the afternoon, Mrs. Clarence Bosket. Mrs. Stanley Wilson gave the meditation entitled "Private Welfare." She read the story of the "Good Samaritan" which is the greatest example of love and compassion one could give.

Mrs. Bosket presented Mrs. Perry Moore who played a piano solo entitled "The Consolation" by Mendelssohn.

Mrs. Bosket then introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Helen D. Hall, field representative for the Social Security Administration, who talked on the subject "Security for You." Mrs. Hall stated that prior to 1900 women were not found working outside the home, but at the turn of the century gradually women began to accept employment until now 50 per cent of the women have jobs or careers. She also explained the law recently signed by President Eisenhower allowing a woman to apply for social security at the age of 62.

Hostesses were Mrs. William Biggers, Mrs. Nelson Pankey and Mrs. W. E. Pankey.

Mrs. Carl Maddox has returned from a visit with her son, Lindell Maddox, who operates a restaurant and service station near Champaign-Urbana.

Officers Introduced at Bayliss P.T.A. Meeting

The P.T.A. of Bayliss school met in the activity room Tuesday evening.

Officers for the coming year were introduced: Weldon Tucker, president; Mrs. Geneva Grounds, vice president; Mrs. Grace Warfield, secretary; Mrs. Ethelene Gibbs, treasurer.

Committees were appointed during the business session. Room count was taken and Mrs. Mary Beggs, kindergarten teacher, won the banner. Personal introductions were made so all could become acquainted.

Pie and coffee for all and soft drinks for the children were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Matheny of Temple City, Calif., are visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Boatright and family of Harrisburg, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cordell Matheny of Creal Springs.

Eldorado Deanery of Catholic Women Holds Fall Meeting at Mt. Vernon

The fall meeting of the Eldorado Deanery of the National Council of Catholic Women of the Diocese of Belleville was held Sept. 20 at Mt. Vernon and was a day dedicated to family and parent education.

The meeting was opened with Holy Mass at St. Mary's church, Rev. J. P. Burke, celebrant, followed immediately with registration at the Mt. Vernon high school auditorium.

The morning session was called to order by the president, Mrs. Everett Lyons, and the opening prayer to Our Lady of Good Council was given by Rev. J. Arnold, moderator. This was followed by Salute to the Flag and a welcoming address from the host pastor, Rev. J. P. Burke. The roll call of the parishes showed that about 200 women were present.

It was voted by the Deanery board that each parish be asked to appoint a permanent chairman to receive and distribute material on program planning. Announcement was made that the Day of Recollection would be held in April at Equality and the spring meeting would be in Flora, the exact dates to be announced later. Mrs. B. A. Balon of Mt. Carmel was elected treasurer and Mrs. Mary Zanetis of Olney was elected vice chairman.

Mrs. C. J. Waggoner, Eldorado, talked on "Family and Parent Education" and Mrs. J. F. Lawler and Mrs. Naas of Ridgeway demonstrated their subject, "Home and School," with a skit, as also did Mrs. Mary Zanetis of Olney who presented her topic, "Youth," with a skit of a typical Aquinas meeting.

Luncheon was served at 12 o'clock at the Emmerson hotel.

The afternoon session began at 1:15 with entertainment by a magician, Bill England.

Twelve priests were introduced including the dean of the diocese, the Very Rev. W. E. Hanagan of Eldorado. The Rev. J. Arnold, moderator, reviewed the morning session and the speaker for the afternoon was Rev. J. T. Curtin, Ph.D., superintendent of diocesan high school of St. Louis, Mo. His talk followed the theme for the day, family and parent education, stressing the fact that the religious education of the children comes primarily from the home and the church.

The day was concluded with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at St. Mary's church, Rev. J. P. Burke, celebrant.

Attending from Harrisburg were Mrs. Dave Evans, Mrs. Ida Mitsdarrfer, Mrs. Viola Tanner, Mrs. Eugene Bridwell and Mrs. Estelle Thorpe.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Cole of Dorris Heights have had their sons, Tom and Bill, with them during the past two weeks. They were employed in the dining room aboard the Milwaukee Clipper, a boat which runs across Lake Michigan from Milwaukee to Muskegon. The boat is 361 feet long and on Sept. 2 1100 passengers were aboard besides the cars. Tom had not been home since Easter and returned this week to Washburn College, Crawfordville, Ind., where he is a junior. Bill is enrolled at S. I. U. as a freshman. The Coles had as their guests recently their other son, Phillip Cole, and his wife of Jerseyville, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Cole are teaching in Medora high school, Medora, Ill.

AUT

THE LONG NIGHT

By MARTIN CAIDIN
Copyright 1956 by Martin Caidin. Distributed by NEA Service.

THE STORY: Henry Thompson, who realizes his wife probably is among the victims of the sneak atom bomb attack on Harrington, is unable to concentrate on his duties at the Civil Defense control center. The city is fighting for survival after the attack.

XII
Winchester looked at the pasty-faced Thompson, muttering disconnected phrases. Winchester fully understood the unhappy man's ordeal.

Winchester walked to Thompson and took his arm gently. "Hank, will you come with me for a moment?" he asked. Thompson looked dully at his service chief, nodded slowly, removed the earphone set from his head, and hung it on the wall rack. He followed Winchester out of the operations room. Once in the hallway Winchester stopped. "Got a cigaret, Hank?" he queried. Thompson pulled a pack from his overall pocket, handed it to Winchester. The reconnaissance chief lit two cigarettes. He handed one to Thompson.

Winchester waited a few moments, then softly spoke to the brooding man. "Is it Janet and the kids that's got you, Henry?"

Thompson nodded without speaking. Winchester said, "I could stand here with you for the next three hours telling you how sorry I am, how sorry we all are about anybody maybe losing some of their family. But that don't do no good, Hank, no good at all."

He paused, then continued. "You don't even know if Janet got hurt. You don't know, do you?"

Thompson licked his lips, misery written plainly on his white face.

"You don't understand, Russ, you don't understand. I told her to run for home when we heard the sirens in the movies. I didn't tell her to go into a shelter. Like a fool I told her to run home, that it was nothing, probably only a test. She couldn't have gotten home before the bomb went off. She must have been right in the open. I'm afraid to think of what happened to her."

"Can't you get it through your head," Winchester urged, "that you can't be sure about any of this? You're torturing yourself, maybe for nothing at all. Sure, maybe she got hurt. It's possible she even got killed, just like the wives of a lot of other people here maybe got killed."

"Look, Henry, I happen to know just what you're going through." He paused for a moment. "Gail was on duty tonight at the hospital. She's dead. And if she isn't I'll never see her again. I saw the evacuation area marked on the maps. Gail has a lot of patients to take care of. She won't leave them."

Winchester's pained voice, faltering for a moment when he spoke of his wife, brought a light awakening to Thompson.

"I'm sorry. Honestly, Russ, I didn't know."

Winchester interrupted. "Get outside and get some air, Henry. Staying in here and staring at the maps isn't doing you or anybody else any good. When you feel you're up to it, come back down and give one of the boys a break at the maps."

Thompson slowly climbed the stairs leading outside the control center. In the distance the stars over Harrington were obscured by black smoke pouring from the city. Even from this distance Thompson could see the fiery fingers slash high above the burning city, clear and sharp through the dust and smoke.

Muted voices suddenly reached his ear. It sounded like a large crowd, the jumble of groans and utterings which belonged to a crowd that was hurt, frightened, and running.

There! across the airfield runways, a surging terror-stricken mob poured over the concrete and grass, running like an insect swarm from the fires, the blood and shattered glass, the pain and the panic and the chaos. Thompson felt neither pity nor compassion; he eyed the tattered mob without feeling as it crossed the field and disappeared into the darkness.

He slumped down again, shivering from the cold night air and the wind. He thought of the trampled, mangled city; he thought of Janet and his children in that holocaust. He wasn't too worried about Johnny. His oldest son could take care of himself. Besides, the alleys where he was bowling were almost three miles from where the bomb went off.

Donald and Terry—mere children. To Donald, civil defense had been a game. But he knew enough about it to act properly if an alert was sounded, or if the bomb did fall.

Thompson hoped fervently that his daughter's Christmas play rehearsal tonight in her high school had lasted longer than Terry expected. If so, then the girl would have been more than a mile and a half from the site of the explosion. The Harrington schools had excellent shelter areas. If Terry was still in school when the bomb struck, she would probably be all right. It was strange to sit here distant and removed and helpless as the city in which he had been born and raised and met success writhed in its flaming agony. Thompson lit another cigaret. He let the smoke curl lazily around his nostrils. He looked at the proud, striving city trampled beneath the colossal tread of the atom. "My children," he thought, "my children." The anguish, the misery and the guilt welled up in his chest and throat.

Curtice's Brother Retires on $65 Monthly GM Pension

LANSING, Mich. (UP) — Leroy J. Curtice, 68, whose younger brother Harlow H. Curtice earns more than $700,000 a year as president of General Motors Corp., has retired on a $65 monthly pension.

The elder Curtice's pension is the result of negotiations between the United Auto Workers and his brother.

Leroy, who is nearly 5 years older than Harlow, retired Aug. 31

GOP to Utilize Comic Book

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Republican National Committee disclosed today that the GOP will utilize a comic book to help get its message across to the voters. A special comic book, "Forward after working for GM for almost 29 years. He was a member of the union most of this time and spent his last working years as an inspector in the GM body shop here with Eisenhower-Nixon," shortly will be shipped to each GOP state headquarters for distribution "at plant gates, rallies, meetings" and for "handout on the streets, and many other places."

The book's illustrated story begins with a newspaper editor trying to write an editorial. He turns to his family photo album for inspiration. Then a Korean War veteran and small businessman, factory worker, the veteran's wife, and a farmer tell why they voted Republican in 1952 and intend to do so again.

Desperate Father Is Captured Half Hour After Robbing Bank of $7,012

SHERIDAN, Ill. (U.P.) — A desperate father who said he "got in debt trying to support my family," was captured Monday night a half hour after robbing the Sheridan State Bank, of $7,012.

Police arrested Fred Jovanovich, 37, at his home in nearby Ottawa, on a tip from a suspicious woman who said she saw him flee the bank carrying a paper bag. Jovanovich admitted the robbery, authorities said.

His wife said the holdup was a case of "robbing Peter to pay Paul." Mrs. Jovanovich, mother of their two children aged 5 and 9, said she knew nothing of her husband's plan to loot the bank.

"I planned this robbery for a month," Jovanovich told police. "I got in debt trying to support my

Du Quoin Plant to Be In Limited Production Within Two Days

DU QUOIN, Ill. (U.P.) — The president of the Du Quoin Packing Co. says the firm will be back in production in a limited way "within two days."

Walter Naumer said ratification of a three-year contract Sunday by workers represents the first long-term contract in the meat packing industry. Workers had been on strike for five months.

Naumer spoke Monday night before the board of directors of Southern Illinois Inc. of which he was formerly president.

The packing company president said SII and the union business agents' council of southern Illinois were a "great help" in helping settle the strike.

Battle Harbour, center of Labrador's fishing industry, probably took its name from the Portuguese "batal," meaning boat.

Order Heiress To Pay Back $12.5 Million

CHICAGO (U.P.) — A long court fight was forecast today over a $12½-million-dollar inheritance ordered withheld from beauteous Mrs. Mollie Netcher Bragno.

The decision, handed down late Monday by Superior Court Judge George M. Fisher, upheld a recommendation made originally by a master in chancery, who found that Mrs. Mollie Netcher Newbury, Mrs. Bragno's grandmother, had mismanaged the estate left her by her merchant husband.

Mrs. Newbury on her death, left the estate to Mrs. Bragno, her favorite granddaughter. But Llewellyn Westcott, the master in chancery, found that Mrs. Newbury had violated her late husband's will by not selling out his State Street store, the Boston Store, in 1923, and by not putting all the profits from the estate into a trust. The findings came as a result of a suit filed by other relatives.

Fisher ruled that the money should be paid back into the estate left by Mrs. Newbury's first husband, the late Charles Netcher Sr. This would apparently ensure that Mrs. Bragno would get back part of the income from the estate, but that four other heirs would share it.

Mrs. Bragno's attorney, Walter H. Moses, said he would appeal the verdict and was granted 90 days in which to file the appeal.

Classified Ads Always Get Results—Even Year Later

Now and then someone places a classified ad in the Daily Register that gets absolutely no results. It is the exception rather than the rule however, and occasionally an advertiser waits for a month or more.

Dean Hill waited for a year. A stove he advertised last fall was sold Monday to a man who read the ad, came in to see if he still had it and Dean sold the stove—through a Register classified. Dr. E. M. Travelstead had a call recently about an ad he ran two years ago!

Mrs. Julia Fritts, 904 South McKinley, pieces beautiful quilt tops, and one of her prettiest disappeared from that residence last week. She seeks its recovery through a Daily Register classified. Mrs. Fritts is 79 years of age and worked a long time on that quilt. Classified readers may be able to help her to locate it.

President Grants Kefauver Request For Briefings

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — President Eisenhower today granted the request of Sen. Estes Kefauver, Democratic vice presidential candidate, for periodic secret briefings on the world situation.

The briefings will be given to Kefauver, as they already are being supplied to Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson, by the Central Intelligence Agency.

Kefauver protested recently that he was placed at a disadvantage since he was the only major candidate who was not being given access to inside information about U. S. foreign relations. He pointed out that Vice President Richard M. Nixon received the CIA reports.

Accept Court School Ruling, Stevenson Asks

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (U.P.) — Adlai E. Stevenson said today it is most important that Americans accept the Supreme Court's ruling against school segregation "as law-abiding citizens."

Launching a day of campaign talk in the South, the Democratic presidential nominee reaffirmed his stand that he believed the court's decision on the touchy racial issue was "right."

"Some of you feel strongly to the contrary," he said in a speech prepared for delivery at McArthur Park here.

"But what is most important is that we agree that once the Supreme Court has decided this constitutional question, we accept that decision as law-abiding citizens," Stevenson said.

A common goal "Our common goal is the orderly accomplishment of the result decreed by the court," he said.

Stevenson was to fly here from Oklahoma City. From here, his itinerary took him to New Orleans and then to Miami Beach, Fla., tonight.

The candidate said in his Little Rock speech that he stands "squarely" on the Democratic plank rejecting the use of force to "interfere with the orderly determination of these matters by the courts."

"The court's decree provides for the ways and means of putting into effect the principle it sets forth," Stevenson said. "I am confident that his decision will be carried out in the manner prescribed by the court."

Forest officials warned, however, that any sudden shift or increase in the wind could send the blaze roaring again towards populated areas.

A report from the fire lines said 40-mile-an-hour winds had died down and the fire fighters were making "considerable" progress.

More than 1,500 fire fighters remained on the lines. The fire was being fought mainly in two sectors near the tourist famed rim of the world highway. More than 10,000 acres of virgin timber protecting the valuable watershed have been burned to ashes.

Five Killed, 11 Injured in Fire

CHICAGO (U.P.) — Five persons were killed and 11 others injured in a fast-spreading fire that ravaged a north side tenement dwelling early today.

A police arson squad was sent to investigate the ruins. Second Deputy Fire Marshal Raymond Daly estimated the damage at $15,000, and termed the cause "very suspicious."

Daly said that of the five victims, three perished after leaping from a third floor of the four-story building.

The Cook county coroner's office identified the victims as Chester Broomfield, 8; his mother, Eleanor Easterwood, 37; Ruthie Lee Smith, 32; Luvenia Glover, 43, and John H. Green, 43.

Creeping Fog Discolors Homes

CARLYLE, Ill. (U.P.) — The creeping fog that discolored homes in Collinsville, Ill., Sunday night moved on to Carlyle, about 30 miles away.

Houses in a mile-long area were turned brown by the fog, which brought with it a disagreeable odor similar to that of rotten eggs.

The residents found it could be wiped away but that it caused a slight burning sensation when in contact with their hands.

Some 100 homes in Collinsville were affected and 30 more in Carlyle underwent the same change.

12 Killed When C47 Crashes Into Mountain

BUENA VISTA, Colo. (U.P.) — A survival team left Buena Vista at dawn today to recover the charred remains of 12 civilians and military personnel killed when an Air Force C47 transport plane crashed into the side of lofty Mount Yale.

The twin-engine plane from Peterson Field at Colorado Springs, enroute to Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif., crashed into the 14,172-foot peak at the 11,500-foot level shortly before noon Monday. A party of seven civilians reached the scene late Monday and found no survivors.

Spokesmen at Continental Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs said names of the victims probably would be released some time today after notification of kin. They said some civilians and at least one woman were aboard.

The survival team, attached to ENT Air Force Base at Colorado Springs, was expected to reach the scene early today and remain there throughout the day.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Mansheim Jr., of Salida, Colo., who led the civilian group Monday, said the plane had smashed head-on into the side of the mountain. Only the tail section was intact in the burned and scattered wreckage.

Six Children in Family Polio Victims

VERONA, N. D. (U.P.) — Six of 11 children in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cox, Verona, were in a Fargo, N. D., hospital today undergoing treatment for polio.

Five of the six victims had received Salk anti-polio vaccine. None of the cases was believed to be paralytic.

Those hospitalized were Ellsworth, 18; Douglas and Francis, 14; Malon, 10; Nada, 8 and Thomas, 4.

Cisne Lumberman Dies at Olney

CISNE, Ill. (U.P.) — Charles A. Raster, 74, Cisne, retired president of the Southern Illinois Lumber Co., died Monday night of a heart ailment in an Olney hospital. The lumber company has yards in 14 southern Illinois towns.

The Daily Register, Harrisburg, Illinois Tuesday, September 25, 1956 Page Six

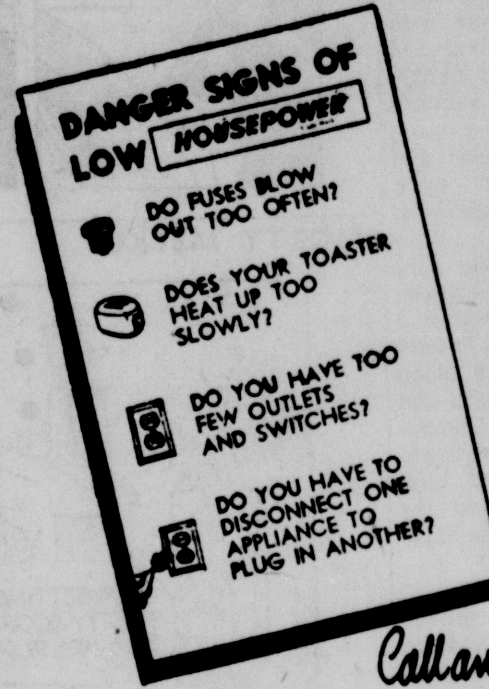

Survivors include his wife and three married daughters. Funeral services will be Wednesday in Cisne, with burial at Albion.

End is Near for Babe Zaharias

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson Zaharias is nearing the end of her long and losing battle against cancer, her physicians have disclosed.

Her physicians issued their first "realistic" bulletin on her condition, leaving no doubt that hers is a terminal case and that the end may come at any time for the 42-year old athlete who was a champion at every sport she tried.

She is steadily weakening and sleeping more and more, her physicians disclosed. They said she is comparatively free of pain since a cordotomy operation earlier in the summer.

Fires Hole In One On Saturday, Then Repeats On Sunday

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill. (AP) — It took Ish Clark, former professional at the golf course here to show them how. Clark fired a hole-in-one Saturday on the 153-yard No. 4 hole of the golf course. Then he repeated the feat Sunday. It was the third hole-in-one in the seven-year history of the course and all have been on the No. 4 hole.

Football Benefits Boys, Calufetti Tells Rotarians

Football and the effect that it has on high school players was the subject that Harrisburg coach Lawrence Calufetti spoke on at the Rotary meeting Monday at the Masonic temple. Tom Davenport, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker.

According to coach Calufetti, football teaches the high school player the meaning of sportsmanship, fair play, how to get along with other people and develops characteristics that remain with him through the rest of his life. To succeed as a good player, a boy must put in long hours of practice and have a love for the game. Coach Calufetti said that he has found that it is not always the big boy that becomes the best player. Smaller boys with lots of spirit have been known to become better players than their larger teammates. He said that most of the better players are good scholars and he gave an example where one of his best teams in the past years had nine boys that had an average of 92 or more.

Coach Calufetti showed the club the offensive plays that his team uses. He stated the belief that the Harrisburg high school team will improve and win some games this year.

The Rotary club has been invited to the Rotary conference to be held at Carmi two weeks from this Wednesday and Thursday. The main speaker at the conference will be the vice-president of Rotary International. All members wishing to attend must have their reservations made by Monday, Oct. 1.

Lindell Lovellette of Eldorado, one of the nearly 100 freshman football candidates at the University of Illinois, was at home over the week end. Reports practice sessions at the U. of I. are plenty tough. "Lost 15 pounds the first night, went from 240 to 225," Lovellette declared.

To play "You Pick 'Em" just study the above list of ten games, circle the name of the school you think will win and for the last game listed, the "game of the week" predict the score. Then mail or bring to The Daily Register sports desk before 5 p. m. Friday. Winner will be announced next week.

Two out-of-town football fans are co-champions of last week's "You Pick 'Em" contest. Robert S. Patterson, 786 State Street, Chester, and John Bishop of Raleigh tied with record of six correct selections and four misses, including the tie Benton-Centralia game.

And they really had a stand-off on the tie game. Patterson picked Benton to win 20-13 and Bishop thought Centralia would win 20-13. The score was 13-13.

Glad to hear from you out-of-town people. Remember to send in your picks by 5 p. m. Friday to be eligible for this week's contest.

Braves in First Place as Dodgers Win Suspended Game, Lose Regular Tilt

By United Press
Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney, although "tickled to death" to be back in first place again, insisted today the only way his Braves can cop the pennant is by "winning all our games and, paying no attention to Brooklyn."

The Dodgers took over the National League lead briefly Monday night—for two hours and 45 minutes to be exact—when they defeated the Pirates 8-3 in the resumption of Sunday's suspended contest but then dropped a half game behind the idle Braves by bowing to Pittsburgh, 6-5, in the regularly scheduled game.

As matters now stand Milwaukee has four games remaining and Brooklyn five, and since both clubs are even in the all-important "lost column," a playoff would become necessary if the Braves and Dodgers win all their remaining games. Cincinnati, still nursing a mathematical chance, is a game and a half off the pace with three games remaining.

"Naturally, I was tickled to hear that Pittsburgh had knocked off Brooklyn," said Haney, who arrived in Cincinnati with his Braves Monday night for a game against the Redlegs today.

Work Still Cut Out

"We were just getting our bags unpacked when we heard the news," Haney said. "But there was really nothing to celebrate. Of course, it was a good break for us and it makes things look nicer but it still boils down to the fact that we have to keep winning all our games and ignore what Brooklyn does."

Frank Thomas and Bob Friend were the chief "villains" as far as the Dodgers were concerned in the setback that really hurt Monday night and gave the Pirates three games out of four in the series.

Thomas slammed his 24th homer off reliever Ed Roebuck in the fourth inning to give Pittsburgh a 5-3 lead and then, after the Dodgers had tied the score on Gil Hodges' two-run homer in the top of the eighth, he singled home Bill Virdon with the winning run in the bottom of the frame for his fourth hit of the game.

Friend, surviving a rocky start, gave up three runs in the first inning and then held the Dodgers at bay except for Hodges' 31st homer to post his 17th victory against 16 setbacks.

Newcombe Gets 26th

It took the Dodgers less than 15 minutes to wrap up the suspended contest. Clem Labine retired three Pirate batters in order in the ninth to preserve Don Newcombe's eighth straight victory and 26th win of the season.

Times Change—Bull Pups Lose To Marion, 32-14

Times have changed. Marion high school, a team Harrisburg has beaten regularly in football, is reversing the procedure this year.

The varsity teams tangled Friday night at Marion and the Wildcats came out on top, 20 to 0.

Last night at Taylor Field the Bull Pups were trounced, 32 to 14, by the Marion freshman-sophomore team.

Marion's Stewart took the opening kickoff and raced 85 yards to score and give his team a 6-0 lead.

Harrisburg quickly tied the count on an 18-yard pass play, Bob Pavelonis to Mike Woolcott, and went ahead 7-6 when DeWayne Martin crashed through for the extra point. That was the only time the locals led.

Before the first quarter ended Reichert of Marion raced 19 yards to score and Hickey's place kick was good. That made the count 13-7 at the end of the quarter.

At halftime the score was 25-7 on the strength of Marshall's 11-yard run and a 71-yard pass play. Reichert to Garrison. Reichert raced 39 yards to score in the third quarter and Hickey place-kicked the extra point to give Marion its final points.

Harrisburg made some nice drives and had several scoring opportunities the last half but cashed in only once. Once Joe Wathen recovered a fumble on the M-30 and the Pups took the ball to the M-6 before being stopped. Wendell Fisher recovered a fumble on the

Eldorado Loses 'B' Game at Carbondale

Eldorado dropped a "B" team football game at Carbondale Monday evening 35-13.

This marked the second loss of the season for the Eaglets, who will be host to the Harrisburg Bull Pups next Monday.

M-33 later but the ball was lost on downs.

Pavelonis scored the second local touchdown in the final period on a 13-yard run following a nine-yard gain by Larry Conrad. A Pavelonis-to-Woolcott pass was good for the extra point.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D. (Written for NEA Service)

When people are free to express their opinions their attitudes become more democratic. Jesus lived in a day of authoritarian rule. He found people shutting off opposition. He found self-satisfied people judging others in their own measures. The world of His day was not democratic.

Through history authoritarians have come and gone. They have held power for short periods of time but many of them have concluded their lives without the respect of their subjects. Even folk in small positions with only lesser degrees of authority have lost their leadership by getting results thru fear.

Parents who use fear in order to control their children lose the love of their own offspring if they do not learn to guide, lead, and love. When children are encouraged to talk to their parents without the constant fear of punishment, they are willing to lead.

All people want to be guided by those for whom they have respect. Jesus received the respect of great multitudes of His followers. He was respected even by His enemies. He deplored authoritarian rule.

As a result, He led many of His contemporaries, as well as millions who have lived more recently. Let us encourage a religious democracy in which people are free from dictatorial domination and authoritarian command. Let us pray for continued individual liberty.

TB Board Lists Reasons to Re-vote Tuberculosis Tax

On Tuesday, Nov. 6, the voters of Saline county will receive a special ballot with their regular ballot. This special ballot contains the question of continuing the Tuberculosis Tax law in this county.

This law places the responsibility for the care and treatment of tuberculosis cases directly upon the individual counties of Illinois. In fact, it places the responsibility for providing the necessary funds for the care, treatment and isolation of tuberculosis cases upon the individual voters in each county.

Almost all of the counties in Illinois now operate under this law and are giving care and treatment to their inhabitants who are unfortunate enough to develop tuberculosis. But the law is such that it must be re-voted at regular intervals. Saline county has had the law for at least 18 years and now the voters are asked to vote for its continuation. The Saline County TB Board lists a few of the reasons why it should be continued:

1. Tuberculosis is a communicable disease and one case left in a home is like a bad apple in a barrel. It spreads the disease to all members of the household. One open case with positive sputum in the theatre, the grocery store, in the court house, in the post office leaves the germs to be picked up by other people. It is estimated that one case of TB, uncontrolled, will cause nine other cases to develop in the community, before death occurs to that person.

2. Tuberculosis is preventable. Medical science has provided the means of discovering this disease in the initial stage before it reaches the advanced and contagious stage and before it reaches the incurable stage. A properly financed program for the control of tuberculosis in Saline county makes it possible today to completely eradicate that disease.

3. Tuberculosis is curable—but only if the proper hospital or sanitarium care is made available to each patient. Ninety-six per cent of these patients are unable to finance their own hospitalization for this disease. They depend on the Tuberculosis Tax law for this assistance.

4. Tuberculosis takes its greatest toll in the most productive years of life. Saline county with the help of the Tuberculosis Tax law during the last 18 years has been able to provide proper care for their TB patients, proper treatment to cure them of this disease, and has been able to bring them back to productive jobs. Such work will continue only if this law is continued, the TB Board points out.
